

Value Delivered to Apartment Corp

Brandon Rose — Role Scope & Compensation Review

Date: May 21, 2026 Prepared by: Brandon Rose

Who I Am

Before joining Apartment Corp, I was not a career assistant. I am a BS Petroleum Engineering graduate (Texas Tech University) with minors in Mechanical Engineering and Mathematics. I spent seven years as an Executive Manager at Rose Equipment Company, a 47-employee operation generating 1.2M in monthly revenue with 500K average net income — where I personally oversaw payroll, compliance, P&L, recruiting, and technology systems. I then spent six years as a licensed California Real Estate Advisor at Engel & Völkers and Equity Los Angeles, handling commercial and residential transactions, market analysis, and investment sales.

I was hired through an Indeed listing for a Personal Assistant to CEO at 25–30/hour. I accepted the role. What I have actually been doing is something fundamentally different.

What the Job Description Said

The role I was hired for outlined the following responsibilities:

- Manage the CEO's Outlook Calendar and schedule appointments
- Provide clerical support: data entry, filing, and proofreading
- Handle phone calls and relay messages
- Organize and plan events
- Maintain a filing system for physical and digital documents
- Prepare basic reports and presentations

Compensation range: 25–30/hour. I am currently paid $30/hour.

What I Have Actually Built & Executed

The following is a complete accounting of the systems, applications, and infrastructure I have designed, built, and deployed for Apartment Corp since joining.

1. Custom Software Applications — Built & Deployed

Application	Description	Status
Apartment Corp Org Chart Website	A live React/Tailwind web application mapping all 43+ properties across 5 regions with filtering, unit counts, regional managers, and property type data. Auto-updates when new properties are added.	Live at <code>aptorgchart-8jqkkzne.manus.space</code>
Vacancy Report WebApp	A dedicated web application providing real-time vacancy tracking across all properties, with a scrolling news-ticker for daily vacancy changes, at-risk property alerts (>4% vacancy), and automated daily HTML email reports.	Live at <code>apartmentcorpvacancyreport.manus.space</code>
PropertyMax.ai Operations Hub (V1 & V2)	A full internal operations platform built on top of PropertyMax.ai, including a custom CRM directory (Prospects, Tenants, Vendors, Employment), maintenance ticket tracking, and a KPI dashboard for property managers.	Live at <code>operationshub-aptcorp.manus.space</code>
Section 8 FMRs Webpage	A Fair Market Rent lookup and comparison tool for Section 8 properties.	Live at <code>phadash-3239rsaf.manus.space</code>

2. Employee Training Program — Built from Scratch

I designed and built a complete employee training infrastructure for Apartment Corp's property managers across all regions.

Phone Excellence Program: A full training module built around the “5 Golden Questions” for converting prospects into tenants. I produced professional AI avatar training videos using HeyGen, built interactive quizzes, and configured the admin portal with CSV-based scoring for all property managers. This program was deployed and presented via Zoom to managers across multiple properties.

PropertyMax.ai Training Hub: A multi-section video training portal covering the full PropertyMax.ai platform — Dashboard, CRM/Directory, Collections, To-Do's, Appointments, Text Messages, Section 8 Inspections, Maintenance Requests, and more.

3. Data Management & Automation Systems

Automated Financial Reporting: Monthly Net Cash Flow reports are automatically generated and delivered on the 12th of every month. Reports include region breakdowns, pre-leased vs. unleased comparisons, and at-risk property flags.

Foxen Integration: Built and maintained the Foxen Property List, Foxen Resident List, and Foxen Renters Insurance Policy databases — tracking enrollment and compliance across all properties.

Comparable Market Analysis Automation: Integrated live data from Co-Star, Apartments.com, and Zillow to track Fair Market Rents (FMR) against current property performance, filtered by zip code and property type.

4. Marketing Infrastructure

I built an end-to-end marketing workflow for rental vacancies: downloading property photos from authenticated portals (SharePoint), generating production-ready Facebook and Instagram ad creatives (three formats per property), and producing comprehensive marketing plans with Fair Housing-compliant ad copy.

The Transition: Absorbing the COO Role

In addition to the systems architecture and operations management outlined above, I have been asked to become an expert in the following enterprise platforms:

- Notion
- Monday.com
- ClickUp
- PSI Safe
- Yardi

I am currently transitioning into Robert’s position. Moving forward, I will be executing all of the technical and operational work I have already built, while simultaneously absorbing his role-specific tasks and heavily assisting him with COO-specific responsibilities.

The Market Reality: What This Work Is Worth

The work I am performing—and the COO responsibilities I am absorbing—aligns with the following professional roles in the Los Angeles property management market:

Role	Typical Market Rate (Los Angeles)
Chief Operating Officer (COO)	158, 000–372,000/year (75–178/hr) [1] [2]
Director of Property Management	121, 000–169,000/year (58–81/hr) [3] [4]
Director of Operations	116, 000–147,000/year (55–70/hr) [5] [6]

I am currently compensated at 30/hour(62,400/year), which is the top of the range for the clerical assistant role I was hired for — but less than half of the market rate for the Director of Operations / COO-level work I am actually executing.

What I Am Asking For

I am not asking to be recognized for doing my job. I am asking to be compensated for the job I am actually doing — which is materially different from the one I was hired for.

The infrastructure I have built is not theoretical. It is live, it is in use, and it is directly impacting the efficiency and revenue performance of Apartment Corp's 43+ properties. As I transition into Robert's role and take on COO-level responsibilities, I would like my compensation and title to reflect the value I am delivering to the company.
