

Compensation Proposal

Brandon Rose — Apartment Corp

Date: May 21, 2026 Presented to: Owner / CEO, Apartment Corp

Background

I was hired as a Personal Assistant to the CEO at 30/hour (62,400/year). The scope of my actual work has operated at the level of a Director of Operations — 12 custom web applications built and deployed, a full employee training program, automated financial reporting, and a complete property operations infrastructure across 43+ properties in 5 regions. I am now being transitioned into Robert's position, which adds COO-level responsibilities and requires expert-level proficiency in Notion, Monday.com, ClickUp, PSI Safe, and Yardi.

The market rate for a Director of Operations in property management in Los Angeles is 116,000–147,000/year. I am presenting two proposals below. Both represent significant value for the company relative to what these roles command on the open market.

Proposal A — Salary + Company Vehicle

Base Compensation

75,000/year—36.06/hour

This is the lower-mid range of the Director of Operations market rate for Los Angeles. It is well below the market ceiling for the combined scope of work I am performing and represents a fair starting point as I fully transition into the COO role.

Vehicle Component

I am trading in my 2018 Ford F-150 Raptor (estimated trade-in value: 23,000–26,000) and making a cash down payment on a new vehicle. I am asking that the company take ownership of the resulting monthly vehicle payment on a 2027 GMC Hummer EV (Pickup or SUV).

Payment Estimates — 2027 GMC Hummer EV

Vehicle	MSRP	After Trade-in & Down	72-Month Payment	84-Month Payment
Hummer EV Pickup 2X (base)	$99,895	$67,895	$1,154/mo	$1,021/mo
Hummer EV Pickup 3X (top)	$107,995	$75,995	$1,292/mo	$1,143/mo
Hummer EV SUV 2X (base)	$96,000	$64,000	$1,088/mo	$963/mo
Hummer EV SUV 3X (top)	$105,000	$73,000	$1,241/mo	$1,098/mo

Assumptions: Trade-in at 24,500avg+7,500 cash down = $32,000 total down. APR: 6.9%.

The vehicle would be used for company-related travel, property visits, and any driving responsibilities associated with the role.

Total Package Value — Proposal A

Component	Annual Value
Base Salary	$75,000
Vehicle Payment (est. 1,000–1,150/mo)	12,000–13,800
Total Compensation	$87,000–$88,800/year

Proposal B — Base Salary + Real Estate Listing Commission

Base Compensation

| 85,000/year—40.87/hour

Listing Agreement Component

I propose that I secure a residential listing agreement signed over the weekend for the property that Apartment Corp currently offices out of, which carries an estimated market value of $3,500,000. I will ask for a listing commission rate of 1.75–2.0% on that sale.

Projected Commission Income:

Commission Rate	Sale at $3,500,000	Sale at $3,300,000	Sale at $3,200,000
1.75%	$61,250	$57,750	$56,000
2.00%	$70,000	$66,000	$64,000

This commission income would be supplemented by additional earnings from other real estate deals I bring in, leveraging my active California Real Estate License (License No. 02102301).

Why This Works for Both Parties

The $85,000 base is my floor and provides stability. The listing commission — which I am uniquely positioned to execute given my California real estate license and knowledge of the property — provides significant upside for me in year one while costing the company nothing beyond the base salary. The company benefits from having an in-house licensed agent handling a transaction that would otherwise go to an outside broker.

Total Package Value — Proposal B (Year 1 Projection)

Component	Value
Base Salary	$85,000
Commission on Office Property Listing (est. 1.75% of $3.5M)	$61,250
Additional Deal Income (supplemental)	TBD
Total Year 1 Compensation (floor)	$146,250

Comparison Summary

	Proposal A	Proposal B
Base Salary	$75,000/year	$85,000/year
Additional Benefit	Company pays Hummer EV payment ($1,000–$1,150/mo)	Listing commission on office property (est. $61,250+)
Total Year 1 Value	$87,000–$88,800	$146,250+
Best For	Ongoing monthly benefit / lower base ask	Higher immediate upside / performance-based

Market Context

For reference, the roles I am currently performing and transitioning into command the following in the Los Angeles market:

Role	Market Rate (Los Angeles)
Director of Operations (Property Mgmt)	116,000–147,000/year
COO (Property Management)	$158,000+/year

Both proposals represent a fair and below-market ask given the scope of work I have already delivered and continue to execute.
