

Personal Notes Report — Vet Call

File: ROSE-REC2_V2076-06-12-11-21-06.WAV Actual Date/Time: July 12, 2026 ~11:21 AM

Duration: 3.8 minutes Participants: Brandon + Belle (Family Veterinary Inc receptionist)

Destination: Personal Notes

Summary

Brandon calls Family Veterinary Inc to inquire about mobile/house-visit services for his dog Hanon, a 9-year-old 85-pound Bernedoodle showing signs of gastric dilatation-volvulus (GDV / “stomach flipping”). Hanon had a similar episode approximately one month prior that resolved on its own; a vet did a visual inspection at the time but no blood work or X-rays were done. Brandon is concerned Hanon is uncomfortable and not moving. Belle (receptionist) advises Brandon to fill out the “Request Appointment for New Patient” form on the website under “Mobile Services → Wellness Exam” and submit a house-call request. Belle marks the follow-up as urgent and notes the callback will come from an 818 number within 24–48 hours (or sooner given the urgency flag).

Speaker-Labeled Dialogue

[0:01] Hold recording: “You’ve reached the front desk. Thank you for your call. Currently, all of our team members are on the other line. Please hold and we’ll be with you shortly. You’re currently first in the queue, and your estimated hold time is under one minute.” [0:20] Belle: “Family Veterinary. This is Belle, how can I help you today?” [0:21] Brandon: “Hi, Belle. My name is Brandon Rose, and I was just calling because I was thinking I might need a mobile vet, but I didn’t know how that worked. Um, last night late, I noticed that my dog was feeling uncomfortable, and he hasn’t really been moving. I try to call for him, and he won’t come. He’s a nine-year-old, uh, about eighty-five pound Bernedoodle. And I’m concerned that he might have, like, his stomach might have done the flipping or gastric... I don’t know the proper terms of it, but it did happen about a month ago, and then it kind of went away, and he was fine. And I got him checked out by the vet, but we didn’t do blood work or X-rays, so it was kind of just a visual inspection. I just wanted to see what kind of services y’all offer if I can’t get him moved to the vet or to y’all — what your mobile services provided.” [1:16] Belle: “Okay. With that being said, yes, I understand. You’re kind of looking for, like, a house visit. And yeah, to know more about it, I highly recommend you — we do have the form available on the website. If you haven’t visited the website yet, it’s familyveterinaryinc.com. And yeah, from there, you will see, um, like, Request Appointment for New Patient. Not necessarily that you’re already booking an appointment, but for you to get further details about the household visit. All that, how it works.

And there to fill out. And yeah, they will be — they usually call within twenty-four to forty-eight hours, but I know this is somehow time sensitive. So I can also submit, like, a follow-up request for this.” [2:13] Belle: “Um, may I have the patient’s name?” [2:16] Brandon: “Yes. It’s Hanon. H-A-N-O-N. It’s a man.” [2:22] Belle: “Hanon. Okay. I’m gonna — um, so I’m gonna send this follow-up note and mark this urgent, so they might be able to respond sooner rather than the usual. And the call will be coming from an eight one eight number.” [2:36] Brandon: “Okay. Well, um, on your website, in the mobile services, does this fall under a wellness exam or a vaccine clinic?” [2:45] Belle: “If you are okay to go to one of our mobile clinics, a low cost, yes, you can do vaccine clinic. So it’s a first come, first serve. So you don’t have to book for that. If it’s a house visit, you need to fill out the form.” [2:59] Brandon: “Oh, no. But I was just asking because on the website it says mobile services — now it drops down, it just gives the categories of the mobile services. So I didn’t see where this would fall under. Um, is it just a wellness exam?” [3:22] Belle: “Yep, yep. ‘Cause it’s not even in anything. It’s still considered a wellness exam. It’s not dental or transportation or laser.” [3:26] Brandon: “Okay, so I’ll just do the wellness exam and then do a request a house call.” [3:33] Belle: “Okay, I’ll do that. Okay, thank you so much.” [3:36] Brandon: “Okay, appreciate it. Thank you so much.” [3:39] Belle: “And we’ll take it from there. Hopefully everything will be okay.” [3:41] Brandon: “Yeah. Bye-bye.” [3:43] Belle: “Bye-bye.”

Action Items

- Brandon: Go to familyveterinaryinc.com → Mobile Services → Request Appointment for New Patient → select Wellness Exam → request house call
 - Brandon: Watch for callback from an 818 number (within 24–48 hours; marked urgent by Belle)
 - Brandon: Consider scheduling blood work and X-rays for Hanon — the previous GDV episode ~1 month ago was only assessed visually

Notable Moments

- Hanon (Brandon’s 85lb Bernedoodle, age 9) had a prior GDV-like episode ~1 month ago that resolved without intervention. No diagnostic imaging was done at that time. Brandon is now concerned about a recurrence.
- GDV (gastric dilatation-volvulus) in large/deep-chested breeds is a life-threatening emergency if the stomach twists. The fact that Hanon is not moving and not responding to calls is a significant warning sign.
